Patch Automatic drive detection Once Undelete Plus is launched, it automatically recognizes all the drives and lets the user pick the one that needs to be scanned for removed files. The destination location also needs to be specified, usually on another partition than the one currently being processed. Fast scanning process Even when testing the application with multiple drives, the generated results are accurate. Not only will Undelete Plus locate a lot of deleted files, but it also works fast, even on very large hard disks. Once the scan is complete, users can filter the found files by type, so as to be able to easily restore their desired items, be they photos, videos, MP3s or any other format. The status of each file is also mentioned, thus informing the user on the chances of recovery they have for each document. Another way of filtering the results is according to their filename, size or the date of the last modification, while also hiding the temporary and overwritten files. The Settings window is the place where keeping the folder structure can be disabled or the Deep Scan feature can be activated. Undelete Plus can also be used to detect zero-sized files on the target drive. Fast and reliable recovery software
